FOREWORD

The data and charts contained in this volume are intended to supplement the accounts of the Weaver, Kiehl, Pool, Bierer and Müller families found in the Autobiography of a Pennsylvania Dutchman.

The material relating to the Weaver, Kiehl, Bierer and Müller families was prepared by the genealogist, Frau Rath of Württemberg. She has produced the only authentic record of our family before the migration of Johann (Georg) Peter Weber to America. She obtained the information from the following sources:

> "The Protestant (Evangelical) church books in Stuttgart (Baptist Registry starting 1560, Marriage Registry 1558); Death Registry 1579 (with breaks); in Heumaden, City District of Stuttgart, Baptism Registry starting 1558, Marriage Registry 1559; Death Registry 1593; Serf Registry of the Ruling House of Württemberg of approximately 1597 (Revised edition in Heumaden of Feb. 19, 1598, published Aug. 3, 1604, state archives in Stuttgart, W.L.E. 31; 'Serf Registry of the monastery St. Blasien in the Black Forest ('Serf Registry of the Parochial District Nellingen of the year 1532), Württemberg State Archives 'Stuttgart, N.L.E. 7; Draft Lists of the County of Stuttgart 1558 to 1566 (Württemberg State Archives 'Stuttgart, M 212 and 303); Paff's History of Stuttgart (1856)."

The data relating to the Pool family was originally prepared by my Uncle Zachariah Pool about 1906. I have edited and rearranged his manuscript and have added to it. The charts have been arranged in the form of the family tree of the writer. Other branches of these families may develop their ancestral lines by determining their relationship to one or more members of the family tree as herein published.

In both list and chart forms the male ancestors have been identified by even numbers and their wives by odd numbers. These numbers have been doubled in passing from one generation to the generation prior in time. They have been supplemented by several revealing letters from Frau Rath.

In addition there are many citations of authorities which could not be included in a more popular work. The data on the Weber family goes back for fourteen generations to 1480; that on the Kiehl family for nine generations to 1608; that on the Pool family for six generations to 1751; that on the Buhrer family for eight generations to 1653, but one branch went back for nine generations; and that on the Müller family for nine generations, but one branch was traced for fourteen generations to perhaps 1460 or before.

I have included pictures of a number of family shrines in Württemberg. These pictures were taken in 1951. They will give the reader a visual impression of the land of our ancestors.

There is in color a Coat of Arms of the Weaver family. This design is registered in the German Central Office for Heraldics in Stuttgart as registration number 702, and can be used only with the consent of the author.

The idea behind a coat of arms is to have it expressive of the history and life of the family it represents. Our coat of arms meets this requirement. The shuttle on the lower part of the shield was taken from the tools of the weavers of the Middle Ages and is indicative of the name Weber (Weaver) of our family. The figure of the stag antlers on the upper part of the shield is indicative of the place of the origin of our family, the heraldic design of Württemberg. The knight's head, armor, and the shield suggest the Middle Ages, the time the family was well known in its home community. The buffalo or ox horns are emblematic of farming, which in addition to weaving, was the occupation of many of our ancestors during the period of which we have an authentic record. The youth dressed in black and seated between the ox's horns with a weaver's shuttle in his right hand is emblematic of Johann (Georg) Peter Weaver, our ancestor who migrated to America between his 19th and 20th birthdays.

The work on this volume has been a labor of love. I undertook the project because I believed that our family history was of such importance that it should be recorded and preserved for the present and for future generations.

Frau Rath spent much of her time for more than two years searching the records in Württemberg and in the Palatinate. In addition, I made a trip to Germany and Switzerland to visit family shrines and to authenticate the information which I had received. The charts and data are irreplaceable. They are deserving of the most favorable consideration of those who are interested in the ancestral background of the Weaver, Kiehl, Pool, and Bierer-Müller families.

I am indebted to Miss Minnie S. Wineman, daughter of my sister, Minnie S. Weaver Wineman; to my cousin, Miss Blanche Pool, the daughter of Amos Bierer Pool; to my sister, Mrs. Sallie Kiehl Weaver Maxwell; and to my cousin, Mrs. Sallie Ebersole Maxwell, for information furnished me; and also to my son, William P. Weaver, Executive Vice President of the Great Northwest Life Insurance Company, for material assistance in printing the manuscript.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

1480 - 1953

The story of the Weaver family dates back to the 12th century, when surnames were taken from the individual's occupation and Johann the Weber (Weaver) became Johann Weber. The name indicates that the family belonged to the craft guild known as Weber in Germany and as Weaver in England. This guild was an important economic and social unit during the Middle Ages. In many instances its members ran the town government, and we have found that several of our ancestors served as members of the Court and as Councilors and Mayors of the towns in which they lived.

The first written record began with Michael Weber (12th generation) who was born in Heumaden, in the Dukedom of Württemberg in 1480. The church in which he was baptized is still in existence, and the house in which the family lived is now standing. A picture of this house, at present in good condition, appears in this volume. The records describe him as a farmer, but it is quite certain that he was also engaged in weaving. Generations XI and X continued to live in Heumaden.

The family moved to Stuttgart in 1623. Hans Weber (9th generation), who was born in Heumaden, married Anna Metzger of Steinenbronn in the ancient Stifts Kirche (Stifts Church) in Stuttgart, and set up housekeeping on April 23rd. This church is still standing. It was rebuilt in 1592. It is a part of Old Castle Square, now called Schiller Platz, because the Statue of Von Schiller is located there.

Our ancestors in Germany belonged to the upper middle class. This class consisted of citizens or free men who cultivated the land, carried on business and were responsible for the local government structures. They were farmers, artisans, and business and professional men.

In four instances members of our ancestral community rose to positions of eminence. Two won distinction in their local communities and two won world wide eminence. The first was Martin Sandberger, who was born in 1545 and who belonged to the ancestral line of Marie Salome Pressel. I secured a picture of the Tomb Plate of Martin Sandberger and his family which is found on the walls of the church at Rohr and have included it in the illustrations of this volume.

The second was Kasper Angerer, who belonged to the same ancestral line. He was a member of the Council of Stuttgart in 1534 and of the Court 1535-1554. He was Mayor of this city 1539-1546, 1546-1548, and 1551.

The third distinguished member, was Johann Christopher Frederick Von Schiller (1759-1803). He was born in Marbach. His father was a lieutenant in the Army during the war of the Austrian Succession, and later became a local gardener. His mother was an innkeeper's daughter. His relationship to the Weaver family community was established through the marriage of Marie Salome Pressel to Johann Georg Weber (7th generation). Schiller was a renowned poet, philosopher and dramatist. He was ennobled in 1802 at the age of 43. A picture of the home in which Schiller was born appears in the Autobiography of a Pennsylvania Dutchman.

The fourth member was Frederich Wilhelm Joseph Von Schelling (1775-1854), whose relationship was established through Jacob Angerer, the ancestor of Marie Salome Angerer, who became the wife of John Georg Weber of the seventh generation. He was the son of a country clergyman. He was born at Leonberg, about twenty miles from Stuttgart. He was an eminent philosopher and Privy Counselor. He was ennobled in 1808 for distinguished services rendered his country.

The ancestor who migrated to America in 1754 was Johann

Georg (Peter) Weber, (5th generation). He was the fourth of eight boys, and was the only one of the children to survive. With the death of Johann Georg Weber (6th generation) on May 28, 1761, the direct line of the family in Germany ended.

The parish register in Stuttgart records the following record of the births and deaths of Johann (Georg) Peter Weber's brothers and sisters:

John George born Oct. 10, 1728 - died September 7, 1731
Ludwig Albrecht born January 20, 1730 - died May 31, 1741
Friedr Enoch born April 29, 1733 - died March 13, 1734
Chrstu Friefr born Nov. 14, 1736; died Nov. 19, 1736
Joh. Gottfried born Nov. 6, 1737 - died Nov. 13, 1737
Joh. Konrad born November 17, 1738 - died March 5, 1741
Chrstu. Friedr born Dec. 17, 1742 - died Feb. 6, 1745

To this list should be added a sister, Marie Elisabetha Shafer, born on December 24, 1731, who died on January 1, 1732, living only eight days.

However, John Georg Weber (6th generation) had a brother Johann Christian (1705-1776), several of whose descendants are now residents of Stuttgart.

Johann sailed for America on the Ship Bannister in May 1754, and landed in Philadelphia on October 21st of the same year. He settled in Bucks County and engaged in farming. He enlisted in the Continental Army from Sussex County, New Jersey and became a member of Captain Bond's Company of the Fourth Battalion, Second Establishment. See Pennsylvania Archives Series V., Vol. 3, pages 785 to 832; U.S. Census of 1790, Pennsylvania, page 264-Col. 3 line 3 from bottom of page. See also New Jersey in the Revolutionary War, 814 and 308.

At the close of the Revolutionary War he moved to Westmoreland County, settling southwest of Greensburg. He died in 1822 at the age of eighty-seven years. His estate was pro-bated in Westmoreland County. He left his land, described as a plantation, to his ten children, among whom was our ancestor Peter Weaver.

The descendants of our branch of the family were Peter Weaver (4th generation - 1780-1850); Jacob Weaver (3rd generation - 1811-1856); and Jacob Peter Weaver (2nd generation - 1843-1927). He was the father of the writer.

The other children of Jacob Peter Weaver (2nd generation) were:

Minnie S. Weaver Wineman born January 30, 1870 - died May 2, 1943
Amos Pool Weaver, born September 9, 1871
Jacob Peter Weaver, born November 7, 1872
Jennie Pool Weaver Bortz, born May 4, 1875
Howard Zachariah Weaver, born December 24, 1879
Sallie Kiehl Weaver Maxwell, born March 2, 1885

Howard Zachariah Weaver lives on the old homestead in Unity Township. All of the other children except one live in Greensburg. There are more than seventy-five grandchildren and great grandchildren. Among the grandchildren is Winnie S. Wineman, court reporter in the presiding department of the Court of Common Pleas for Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania.

The descendants of John Peter Weaver and Eve Thomas Weaver in addition to Peter Weaver (4th generation) were John Weaver, William Weaver, Elizabeth Weaver, Catherine Weaver; Christine Weaver, Jacob Weaver, --- Weaver, and Joseph Weaver.

The descendants of John Weaver, eldest son of John Weaver, were Samuel Weaver, John Weaver, Jonathon Weaver, Hannah Weaver, Daniel Weaver, Henry Weaver, Elizabeth Weaver, Susannah Weaver Hart, Margaret Weaver Carnahan, and William Weaver.

EXCERPT FROM LETTER OF FRAU RATH

DECEMBER 10, 1949

I have given you such a clear survey of the results of my investigations that I do hope you will obtain a good perspective without too much effort. In the Family Tree in List Form all results are combined; that is, everything that could be found with respect to the ancestors of Georg Peter Weber from his father's side and from his mother's side. The paternal line, that is the direct line of ancestry, can be traced to Michael Weber, who was a citizen and a farmer in Heumaden. Heumaden was a small village at that time, and today this village is incorporated into Greater Stuttgart, and is considered to be a beautiful suburban residential section. There is no train connection to that part of the city. From the last stop of the street car the road leads from one side starting in Sillenbuch, for a half hour across the fields. On the other side the road leads down hill to the Neckar (River) to Hedelfingen.

The Weber family was an old established family in Heumaden. I am sending you a photostatic copy of the oldest of the name which could be found.

6. Photostatic copy from the Registry "of the parochial district Nellingen of 1532" from the state archives of Stuttgart "Lagerbuch" NLE 7, page 5.

In this document the wife of the oldest known ancestor, Michael Weber, called Margaretha Schreiber is mentioned. The text reads:

> "Margreth Schryberin heretofore mentioned, the widow of Michael Weber blessedly deceased."

and then her children are listed, among them ancestor Jerg Weber, 16 years old (ancestor in the 11th generation). Why the family was for some time called "Weber-Koch" I could not find out. The Weber was, as already mentioned above, an old established family in Heumaden. It appears immediately in the oldest church book with many who bore that name, and since those people frequently had the same first names, a distinction had to be made between them by supplementing the name with "the old one" or "the young one" or "Weber-Koch".

Many of the female lines of ancestry lead to outside communities. Some specific examples:

LANDESS: (page 24, ancestral number 23, married to Angerer) Gaisburg was formerly an independent village and is now a suburb of Stuttgart. It kept its own church books. It appears that the family first moved there in 1614 or 1615, probably from one of the surrounding villages, maybe from Uhlbach, Unterturkheim or Wangen. The name appeared there. This line of ancestry could not be traced back any further than is written here.

HECKEL: (page 25, ancestral No. 89, married to Angerer.) The church books at Gerstetten begin there only as of the year 1607. This line of ancestry can, therefore not be traced back any further.

DANNI: (pages 28-29) They come from Pluderhausen, Wurttemberg. There the baptismal registry starts in 1569, the marriage registry in 1592, the death registry in 1584. Therefore, further research may be carried on there. The Dannis are presumably exiles.

BOCK: came from Jena (pages 30-31 and following pages) The ancestor Wolfgang Bock became a citizen of Stuttgart around the year 1596. A "letter Certifying (Full) Good Legal Standing" (Mannrechtsbrief) is a document from the home community certifying legitimate descendency, good conduct, etc. Probably today we would call it a "Certificate of Good Conduct". I regret to say that the originals of these documents were destroyed in April 1934 as castle Lowenstein, to where they had been transferred, was set on fire by pursuit fighter planes. That is the reason why I cannot include a photostatic copy of these documents for you. But I am pleased to say that it was possible for me to trace back this line of ancestry farther on the basis of research already made and published in the book "The Inhabitants of Jena in the time from 1250 to 1600", by Hans Apel. Jena is located in the state (Land) of Thuringia. This is now within the Russian zone! Continued research there is no longer possible! Of all lines of ancestry this Bock line could be traced back farthest--back to approximately 1479! In the year 1479 the oldest known ancestor Bock, Moritz Bock, is for the first time mentioned in a document as a house owner "before the Lobter gateway". In 1481 his wife was still living. Naturally, in those early times it is rather difficult to find the exact life date and one must be satisfied to know the names and the approximate time. With regard to those lines of ancestry I was fortunate to find so much! Unfortunately with regard to some of the other lines of ancestry there is no possibility for further research.

In Steinenbronn (Ad. Mezger, page 18) and in Urach (Ad. Planckenhorn page 22) the church books begin much later. These lines of ancestry must be considered as exhausted (closed).

In Marbach (Ad. Kluntzinger, page 20, Ad. Pressel, page 23) the church books were destroyed by fire at the occasion of an invasion by the French in the year 1693. Therefore, these lines of ancestry cannot be investigated from the church books. Marbach is the birthplace of the poet Friederich Schiller and today the German Schiller National Museum is located there. It may justifiably be assumed that the ancestors of Mr. Weaver were related to or in-laws of the ancestors of the poet Schiller; that means that Mr. Weaver is in ''ancestral community'' with Schiller, that is, the same ancestors! Schiller's mother was a nee Kodweiss, daughter of Georg Friedrich Kodweiss, whose ancestors were old residents in Marbach. His grandmother, Anna Maria Kodweiss, was a nee Hampp, daughter of a Hans Jakob Hampp from Buoch. And now please compare on page 21, V19: Anna Ochs was in her first marriage married to Jerg Hampp, the son of a Jerg Hampp from Buoch! Therefore, there existed family relations with Marbach as well as with Buoch.

ANGERER: (Page 25, Ancestral No. 88). The married couple Jakob Angerer and Sara Heckel is concurrently also a pair of ancestors of the philosopher, Schelling; and, therefore, the previous ancestors of this pair of ancestral parents, Kasper Angerer and Martin Heckel, are the same in the family trees of Dr. Weaver and of the philosopher Schelling. Therefore, Dr. Weaver has the same ancestors, or as we say now, he has ancestral community with SCHELLING (von), Friedrich Wilhelm Josef, Professor of Philosophy in Jena 1798, Ph.D. and M.D. in Landshut 1802, Professor in Wurzburg 1803, raised to nobility as a member of the Academy in Munich in 1808, Professor in Erlangen in 1820, Munich 1826. Privy Counsellor in 1830, Professor in Berlin 1841. Born in Leonberg on Jan. 17, 1775. Died in Ragaz August 20, 1854.

The family tree of the philosopher Schelling was published (approximately in 1931) in the ''Swabien Family Trees in List Form'', a supplement to the ''Letters for Würtembergian Family Genealogies''. There is, however, less printed there than I could convey to you in the enclosed sheets, for in the meantime I discovered additional detailed information concerning Jakob Angerer and especially his father, Kaspar, and their life careers. (See page 27).

SANDBERGER/ROTH: (Page 25) I was very pleased to have discovered this very beautiful gravestone for a pair of ancestors of Dr. Weaver. I have ordered that pictures be taken, but up to this time I have not as yet received prints. I hope that I will receive them in time to be able to mail them to you to arrive as a Christmas or New Year's greeting, for I assume that Dr. Weaver will have repose and time during the holidays to make a thorough study of this new part of his family tree, and to become acquainted with his ancestors!

EXCERPT FROM LETTER OF FRAU RATH
JANUARY 9, 1950

I can very well imagine that you have had some trouble getting thoroughly acquainted with the results leading so far back into the ancestral tree of the Weavers.

1. The only view of the small village of Heumaden which I could get from the Württemberg central ''Land'' Photograph Registry. It is one of the oldest houses which was standing already at the time when the ancestors of Dr. Weaver were living in Heumaden. They are said to have lived in it. I would have very gladly sent to you an aerial view from the bird's eye perspective, but I could not get any such photograph.

2. There are two copies, a photograph of the tomb plate on the church at Rohr. Formerly Rohr was a small independent village which, however, now belongs to Stuttgart.

   I hope that this beautiful epitaph with the pictures of his ancestors will be a special pleasure for Dr. Weaver. (See Ancestral List page 26, Generation VI., ancestral No. 90, Martin Sandberger.) Therefore, the valid family coat of arms of the ancestral lines Sandberger and Roth has been found. The details and the colors of these two coats of arms I can find out from the pertinent publications referring to coats of arms. If you so desire I can have them designed very beautifully for insertion into the ancestral tree of Weber. The words ''in times of death'' mean that at that time the plague was raging in the country which wiped out many people quickly.

This epitaph is very beautifully designed. With a magnifying glass you can clearly make out the faces in the photographs. On the left side Martin Sandberger is kneeling with two of his sons who died early and on the right side is his wife, Barbara, nee Roth, with five daughters who also died early. The city in the background (which has no similarity to any Württemberg City) probably represents "the heavenly Jerusalem".

3. A photostatic copy of the oldest entry, from the year 1532, for the widow of the oldest ancestor, Michael Weber in Heumaden, for Margaretha nee Schreiber (Schryber, Schreyber) and her children among which the ancestor Jerg is mentioned (the same as George) at the age of 16 years. Rohracker and Hedelfingen are small villages near Heumaden. The adolescent children were, therefore, probably there in the service of a farmer's family for their training.

EXPLANATION OF NUMBERING

Due to the fact that the charts and the accounts in list form are partly German and partly American requiring them to be edited, the numbering could not be uniform. The following explanations will help the reader to understand them.

WEAVER FAMILY

Roman numerals refer to generations. Arabic numerals identify the ancestor (males are identified by even numbers, females by odd numbers). The numbers are doubled in passing from one generation to a former one. In the chart of the direct line of ancestry generation number I begins with the generation of the author. In the other charts and in the family tree the generations begin with Johann Georg Peter Weber, the ancestor who migrated to America.

KIEFL FAMILY

Ancestors are identified with Arabic numerals beginning with the generation of the author. Generations have been added in parentheses.

POOL FAMILY

Roman numerals refer to children of Zachariah Pool, and letters in parentheses to their descendants; except Roman numeral XV which lists the descendants of Samuel Pool and Sophia Fredrica Bierer Pool.

BIERER-MÜLLER FAMILIES

Roman numerals refer to generations which begin with the generation of the author as number I. Arabic numerals identify the ancestors beginning with Johannis Bührer and Barbara Müller who migrated to America.

KIEHL FAMILY

1701 - 1890

The Kiehl family came from the Lower Palatinate (Unterpfalz on the Rhine. This section was near the Saar Valley, and within the Zone which for centuries had been the subject of wars between France and Germany. In 1639 Louis XIV ordered his armies to lay waste to the entire country, including Heidelberg, Mainz, and other towns. He destroyed many ancient records, and for that reason this account must be fragmentary.

Hans Jerg Kiehl (6th generation) was born at Middersheim, near the city of Bad Kreusnack on the Nahe River, on April 15, 1701. His father died when he was two years old. His mother remarried in 1704, and he was reared by his mother and his stepfather. His father had been a clergyman, and his stepfather held different posts of honor in the communities. His mother was also well known. She lived to the advanced age of 85 years, passing away on May 11, 1756. His maternal grandfather, Johann Michael Jung (8th generation) was a schoolmaster at Giessen 1654-1655 and at Marxheim in 1666 and a clergyman at St. Julian 1678-1710. We do not know the vocation of Christian Jung (1608-1691), his maternal great grandfather (9th generation), or of Margaretha Breth Jung (9th generation), his maternal great grandmother.

Although Hans was educated, probably a teacher or a clergyman of the Reformed Church, he found conditions in his native land quite unbearable. Economic, social, and political conditions were unsettled; and his family, as well as other devoutly religious people, had revolted against the catholicism that had been imposed upon them.

Hans Jerg Kiehl, although 37 years old, migrated in 1738 arriving in Philadelphia on the ship Saint Andrew on October 27. He settled in Berks County. He suffered with the other settlers during the French and Indian War; but he was too old to take part in the Revolutionary War. Hans was indirectly a part of a famous story of the French and Indian War. The town of Pine Creek was wiped out by the Indians, and Regina Leininger, a ten-year old girl, was carried off. They took her across the Allegheny Mountains to a point near Bushy Run. After this battle-nine years later--she was returned to her native village. She had forgotten her native tongue. Then the mother sang an old refrain often repeated in the girl's childhood:

''Allein und dock nicht ganz alleine
Bin ick in Meiner Einsamkeit'' (Alone and yet not completely alone am I in my loneliness).

The daughter immediately caught the refrain and sang:

''Denn wenn ich ganz verlassen Scheine
Vertreibt mit Jesus sebst die zeit''
(I am with Jesus and Him with me so I don't feel lonesome at all)

In this way she was recognized and restored to her people. Hans was well acquainted with the Pine Creek episode. His family later moved to Greensburg near Bushy Run Battlefield.

Our ancestors, Adam Kiehl (5th generation) and Jacob Kiehl (4th generation), were born in Berks County.

KIEHL FAMILY

The family moved to Westmoreland County sometime between March 22, 1801 and December 31, 1803. They joined the German settlement in Hempfield Township.

Salome Sarah Kiehl (3rd generation) was born in Hempfield Township November 2, 1819 and died in Greensburg on April 6, 1890. She married Jacob Peter Weaver (1811-1854) (3rd generation).

Children of Salome Sarah Kiehl Weaver:

1838-1920 - Mary Magdalena
1840-1933 - Rebecca Susannah
1842-1928 - John Daniel
1844-1929 - Jacob Peter, who was my father.
1846-1936 - William Franklin
1848-1852 - Sarah Anna
1850-1937 - Eliza Jane
1855-1929 - Joseph Henry, who was born several months after the death of his father.

All the children continued to live in western Pennsylvania except John Daniel, who moved to Missouri after the Civil War. Joseph Henry spent his last years with his son, Joseph, in Southern California.

Although there are many descendants of John Georg Kiehl in and about Greensburg, some of them belonging to families of great prominence, there is no representative of the male line. The only surviving male member seems to be Bennett F. Kiehl of Harrisburg.

EXCERPT FROM LETTER OF FRAU RATH

NOVEMBER 28, 1950

I have discovered a Palatine called Johann Georg Kiehl and I believe that he will be your ancestor.

This is the only Johann Georg Kiehl, (Hans Georg, Hans Jerg), I could trace with much trouble by advertising in the genealogical papers. The clergyman of the respective small place who let me know that he had a Hans Georg Kiehl in his registers, wrote me that he could not give me any further information by letter and that I would have to come personally. The place in question is called ''Meddersheim'' and is a small village, not far from the river Nahe which flows into the Rhein at Bingen Meddersheim has no railway station and only once a day one can reach by bus the nearest larger place, the small town of Sobernheim on the Nahe. In the registers of the clergyman at Meddersheim I could find a number of dates of Johann Georg Kiehl and his family:

JOHANN GEORG KIEHL is born and baptized in Meddersheim 1701, April 15th.

The marriage of his father: Johann Peter Kiehl and his mother; Anna Margaretha (or Anna Margaretha Elisabetha) is not registered at Meddersheim. I suppose they married at the home of the mother. She was the daughter of a clergyman by the name of Jung. (I was very glad to find a clergyman in this family, because it will be possible to find the dates of his life in respective printed literature). The couple Kiehl/Jung had two children:

KIEHL FAMILY

1. Johann Michael Kiehl, baptized 1698, November 13th
2. JOHANN GEORGE KIEHL, baptized 1701, April 15th

The father JOHANN PETER KIEHL died at the age of 30 years at Meddersheim on April 14th, 1703 and it is said about him in the death-records:

"---ein frommer undt stiller Mann undt bey manniglich belibt undt belobter Mitbuger hiesiger gemeindt---" This may be translated as follows: "a religious quiet man, an honest and highly esteemed fellow citizen."

His young widow married a second time at Meddersheim 1704, Sept. 30th, the blacksmith Sebastian Reitenbach (Redenbach, Reidenbach) and had with him 5 or 6 children. This stepfather had in later years different posts of honor. He died at the age of 84 years in 1754, January 25th. The widow Reitenbach, mother of Johann Georg Kiehl, died 1756, May 11th at the advanced age of 85 years and 4 months.

I have noted all the dates I could find regarding the family Kiehl and widow Kiehl married Reitenbach and I looked through the records of baptism page by page, until about 1756 but did not find the name of Johann Georg Kiehl mentioned as a godfather of children (of his own family), of his own relationship or of other families. I will arrange this material and write these dates out later on when I have more time at home in order to send them to you.

Looking through the registers of Meddersheim I could convince myself that the brother of Hans Georg Kiehl, Johann Michael Kiehl, got married and had children while regarding Hans Georg Kiehl there is nothing more to be found in the registers - no marriage, no death. This is a proof that he left his birthplace.

While I could get all this information from the registers at Meddersheim, it was not possible to have any certificates made out at Meddersheim. In order to obtain certificates and to find out more details, I had to walk on foot to the town of Sobernheim, where they keep the photostatics of the oldest churchbooks beginning 1694 in the townhall, since the original churchbooks had to be deposited in the Staatsarchiv at Coblence a/Rhine before (or during) the last war.

At Sobernheim I found a register of the confirmation of the children at Meddersheim of each year since 1712, in which were noted in the year 1715 Johann Michael Kiehl and in the year 1717 Johann Georg Kiehl. The entry about his confirmation in the year 1717 is the last trace I have found of Johann Georg Kiehl in those records.

Herewith I am sending you:

1. Certificate of Baptism of Hans Georg Kiehl, bapt. 1701 April 15.

2. Certificate of Death of the father Joh. Peter Kiehl 1703, Apr. 14. Remarriage of the mother, widow of Peter Kiehl, married second time 1704, Sept. 30 to Seb. Redenbach (Reitenbach, Sebastian). Death of the mother widow of her second husband, Sebastian Reitenbach, died 1756, May 11.

3. Certificate of Confirmation Joh. George Kiehl, 1717 (and his brother Joh. Michael 1715)

More information is not to be had at Meddersheim and Sobernheim.

I learned at Sobernheim that the original churchbooks had to be deposited in the Staatsarchiv Coblenz (as already mentioned above) and also parts of the oldest documents of all these little villages were transferred to Coblenz.

In former times the Palatinate consisted of a number of larger and smaller principalities, the boundaries of which changed quite often for one reason or the other; and it was nothing extraordinary that a principality or part of it passed into other hands by inheritance or by other reasons. Thus it happened that towns and villages changed their proprietor sometimes more than once. Meddersheim being such a village that changed hands several times, it is not surprising that the documents of the older times are scattered. As it belonged at one time to the princes of Salm-Salm, part of these documents are to be found in the "Furstlich Salm-Salm-Horstmar' schen Archiv" at Anholt in Westphalia, another part in the "Staatarchiv" at Coblenz on the Rhine.

HISTORICAL SKETCH
1751 - 1917

The Pool family was English. Being denied the right to go directly from England to America, the family moved to Germany and joined the great German migration to the colonies.

The given names of the early ancestors are not definitely known; but the records indicate that they were Jacob Pool (5th generation), who arrived on September 23, 1751 on the Ship Neptune, and Jonas Pool (6th generation), who arrived on September 15, 1752 on the Ship Two Brothers. Apparently Jacob Pool came one year before his father. Tradition says that the family settled in Baltimore County, Maryland. Both father and son died there, and the place of their burial is unknown. All efforts to get information relating to them failed. Records of this nature were not kept during Colonial times.

The first authentic record concerned Zachariah Pool (4th generation) (1779-1877), who had moved to Chambersburg, Pennsylvania. His mother was said to be of German descent. On September 19, 1807 he married Barbara Huffman, who was of Pennsylvania Dutch descent. The records show that he owned a small parcel of land in Chambersburg.

Zachariah Pool (4th generation) moved to Westmoreland County in 1812 and settled in Hempfield Township, where he purchased one hundred acres of land.

The family, including Samuel Pool (3rd generation) then only one year old, is said to have crossed the Allegheny Mountains in a Conestoga Wagon.

His first wife died on February 25, 1854, and two years later he married Mrs. Susan Uncapher. He lived to the advanced age of ninety-eight years and had 14 children, 101 grandchildren, and 140 great grandchildren. Because of this large family many persons of Pool descent in Western Pennsylvania and elsewhere are related to us. He was a shoemaker and a farmer.

Our ancestors were Samuel Pool (1811-1890) (3rd generation) and Mary Jane Pool Weaver (1848-1917) (2nd generation). She was the mother of the author.

September 18, 1834 he married Sophia Frederica Bierer, who was born December 7, 1816 and died April 21, 1887, aged 70 years, 4 months, and 14 days. They are both buried in St. Clair Cemetary, Greensburg, Pa. in lot 113, Section S.

Samuel Pool was by occupation a shoemaker and the writer even though he was only five or six years old, can well remember being in his shop. Samuel Pool lived a useful but uneventful life, which was generally the experience of the citizens of Westmoreland County at this early period. Although many of the Pool Family were Democrats, he became a Republican in politics. He was a member of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church of Greensburg. In 1835 he moved to the town of Grapeville, where he continued his trade as a shoemaker.

In the spring of 1845 he accepted the position of toll gate keeper on the Pittsburgh and Stoyestown Pike, then about a mile west of Greensburg. This was before the building of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and all of the traffic between Pittsburg and the west traveled over this route to Philadelphia and other eastern points, being hauled on Conestoga Wagons. While so employed he continued his vocation as a shoemaker. In 1851 he purchased the Bierer homestead, which then lay about a mile west of Greensburg, for $1,352.00. He moved to this property on April 1, 1852. He lived here until 1889 when he sold the property for $10,000.00, which was a respectable sum of money in those days. This property is now a part of Greensburg. After his wife died in 1887 he resided with his daughter, Mary Jane Pool Weaver, on the farm on Dry Ridge and with his other children until his death.

FAMILIES

HISTORICAL SKETCH

BIERER 1653-1887 - MÜLLER 1460-1843

The Bührer-Müller families were the last ancestors to migrate to America. The Bührer family came from Wiernsheim and the Müller family lived in Birkenfeld.

The first record of the Bührer family was in the Village of Tamm in the Dukedom of Württemberg, a town whose beginning is lost in antiquity. Christopher Bührer (1653-1695) (8th generation) resided there. Even at this early date he was a citizen. He was a baker by trade. Kasper Bührer (1686-1743) (7th generation) moved to Wiernsheim, then a village of 450 inhabitants. Michael Bauchler (9th generation) was a citizen, farmer, and councilor. Sebastian Hubsch (9th generation) was a mayor.

The Bührers were one of the leading families of the village. Kasper was the Town Shepherd, and the head of the powerful Shepherd's Guild which met and still meets in the town Markgrönengen. Johannis Bührer (1728-1797) (6th generation) was a citizen, farmer, and weaver. He was a man of means. The house in which he lived stands next to the City Hall. The house is still in good condition.

Johannis Bührer (5th generation) (1757-1804), married Barbara Müller (1761-1843) on May 15, 1781. She was born in Birkenfeld. They went to housekeeping in Wiernsheim and their house is still standing. Here Johannis Bührer (4th generation), Frederick Bührer, and Eberhardt Bührer were born.

This building may still be seen. The Church in which they worshipped and in which they partook of the Last Supper before they sailed for America, was bombed by the Allies during World War II and almost completely destroyed. The records of our ancestors were in a third-story attic of the town hall among discarded papers and other debris. The family still lives in Wiernsheim, now a town of 1210 population. William Bührer, twelve generations removed, owns a tavern and a store. His father, George Bührer, is over 80 years of age and I found him hale and hearty The picture which appears in this volume, shows an almost unbelievable family resemblance.

For 150 years there has been a tradition that Barbara Müller was of royal descent, being three generations removed from Frederick the Great. This tale and how it grew from conditions existing during Barbara's early womanhood has been carefully analyzed in the Autobiography of a Pennsylvania Dutchman. It is a most interesting bit of family fiction.

Contrary to this tradition, which implied an immorality, the ancestors of Barbara Müller were of the highest character.

John Phillip Müller (1725-1799), her father (6th generation), was married to Maria Elisabetha Dittus (1723-1768). He was a citizen and a farmer. Her paternal grandfather Phillip Müller (1691-1755) (7th generation) married Anna Marie Wesinger (1695-1766). He was a citizen and a farmer. Her maternal grandfather Johannis Dittus (1695-1766) (7th generation) married Elizabeth Schrott (1694-1750). Her paternal great grandfather Johann Jacob Müller (8th generation) (1652-1726) married Katherine Schrott (1652-1732). He was a citizen, farmer, lawyer, and judge. Her paternal great, great grandfather, Jacob Müller (9th generation), married Magdalena Bodamer (1650-1684) of Calmbach. He was a citizen, farmer, and state's attorney. Her maternal great, great grandfather, George Schrott (died 1653) (9th generation) married Anna Maria (maiden name unknown). He was a citizen and a member of the Court in Birkenfeld. Her maternal great, great grandfather, Johannes Wesinger (born 1608) (9th generation) married Katharina Bodamer of Calmbach in the Black Forest. Hans Michael Dittus (9th generation) and Johannis Muller (9th generation) were citizens and millers. Johannes Kugelin (died 1674) (9th generation) was a citizen and mayor. Georg Muller (died 1658) (10th generation) was a citizen and farmer.

Abraham Wolfinger (10th generation) was a citizen and a member of the local court in Birkenfeld. Moritz Bodamer (1548-1590) (11th generation) was a mayor, a sawmill owner, and a Forest Inspector in Calmbach (1575). Barthelin Bodamer (1520-1592) (12th generation) was a citizen of Wildbad. Job Bodamer (13th generation) was a citizen and was known as Bodmar and Podamer before 1520. Benedict Bodamer (born 1460? - died before 1542)(14th generation) was a citizen and a painter in Wildbad. Other ancestors not in the direct line were millers, councilors, honorary judges, advocates, and guardians of widows, orphans, and the poor.

Johannis Bührer (5th generation) and his wife and three sons set sail for America in May 1804. The father died at sea of tropical fever and the mother and three sons landed at Philadelphia (Baltimore?) They crossed the Allegheny Mountains in the dead of winter. They settled near Pleasant Unity in Unity Township. While living there they changed their name to Bierer.

John M. Bierer (1782-1851) (4th generation) married Barbara Holtzinger, who was born in 1786. She died in 1832. She was the daughter of Jacob and Christina B. Holtzinger (Holtzer), and the granddaughter of Captain Charles Lukins who served with distinction in the York County militia in the Revolutionary War. (See Vol. 77, page 143; D.A.R. Lineage Books, Pennsylvania Archives, 6th Series, Volume II, page 421, pages 437-438, 594, 599-600. Boucher's History of Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, Vol. 3, page 32; Pennsylvania Archives, Vol. 4, page 327; Pension Bureau, Washington, D.C. Pension Claim W. 3202.)

The union was blessed with fourteen children. In 1833 John M. Bierer married Mrs. Margaret (Holtzinger) Allbright, a sister of his first wife. There was no issue to this second marriage. In his later life John M. Bierer gave up his business and lived a retired life until his death on March 30, 1843. John M. Bierer, his two wives and his mother were buried in the German Cemetery in Greensburg. On November 13, 1908, the remains of Christena B. Lukens Holtzinger; John M. Bierer, Sr.; Barbara Müller Bierer, his mother; and Barbara Holtzinger Bierer; and Margaret Holtzinger Allbright Bierer were disinterred and reinterred in the Union Cemetery near Greensburg.

Among the children of John M. Bierer and Barbara Holtzinger were Sophia Fredrica Bierer (1816-1887) (3rd generation) who married Samuel Pool. Other children were:

(a) Jacob Bierer, who as a young man, went to New Orleans and never returned; (b) John M. Bierer (1807-1874) married Eliza Pool (1808-1900). They had seven children. He engaged in the butchering business. He served for three years as County Commissioner and for two terms as Poor House Director; (c) David Bierer (1809-1855) married Anna Steelsmith (1813-1830) on October 24, 1829. They moved to Hancock County, Ohio, where his descendants have lived for many years. Some of these descendants have changed their names to Berry. One of them was Charles J. Berry, now deceased, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, who published a genealogy of the Bierer-Berry family in America in 1933; (d) Rachael Bierer (1812-1899) married Adam Baughman on June 27, 1830. They had one child, Anna Bierer, who was married to Robert Best, an ancestor of Robert Edward Best, now a member of the leading Law firm of Smith, Best, and Horne of Greensburg. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Armstrong County, Pennsylvania and engaged in farming; (e) Rosen Bierer (1813-1847) married John George Blyholder on November 17, 1831. He was born near Stuttgart in Württemberg on October 27, 1806. They had nine children, several of whom moved away from Greensburg. One of the children became a doctor and another was educated for the ministry.

(f) Luke Bierer (1817-1888) married Sophia Blank. They had six children. One moved to Armstrong County and another moved to California. (g) Amos Bierer (1819-1864) married Maria (Polly) Blank. They had four children. All remained in western Pennsylvania. One became a doctor and located at Export. (h) Anna Maria Bierer (1822-1888) married John George Wagner, a native of Württemberg, Germany, on June 8, 1837. They had fourteen children. So far as is known, all of them remained in western Pennsylvania. (i) Eliza Jane was married to Dr. Caleb Blyholder. (j) Charlotte Bierer (1824-1896) married Jonas Blank on December 2, 1841. They had eleven children (k) Salome Bierer (1826-1904) married Alexander H. Pool. (See descendant XII Pool Family page 56).

In 1906 my uncle, Zachariah T. Pool, published much valuable data about the Bierer family in typewrittrn form. This data was never printed. In 1933 Charles J. Berry of Minneapolis arranged this data in genealogical form, added to it, and published the enlarged account in a bound mimeographed volume. Since the Berry book brings the family data down to the time of its publication, I have not included the information in this historical sketch. Neither of these accounts touch the European background, except to repeat the tradition about Barbara Müller being descended from Frederick the Great and Johannis Bührer's supposed experience in the German Army. Both contain detailed information about collateral heirs not included with this data.

Mary Jane Pool (1848-1917) (2nd generation) was the only daughter of Samuel Pool and Fredrica Bierer Pool to live to maturity. On December 24, 1868 she married Jacob Peter Weaver (2nd generation). They were the parents of the writer.

Many of the descendants of this branch of the family have been prominent in the communities in which they have lived. They have also won distinction in the military and naval service of the United States.

The picture of Mary Jane Pool Weaver as a young woman appears among the illustrations.

EXCERPT FROM LETTER OF FRAU RATH

SEPTEMBER 10, 1950

I continued my research work in June and July, first in Wiernsheim. I succeeded in locating old records and registers high in the attic in the town-house, under dust and lumber. Wiernsheim was badly damaged and meanwhile there was no time and no money to put in order old archives.

I could find some "Inventar- und Theilungs- Akten", among them the inventory of Johannes Bührer and Barbara Müller at their marriage in 1781, (dated 1781, August 4th). The mayor at Wiernsheim was so kind and made a very rare exception; he lent me some documents to have a photostatic copy made in Stuttgart. Now I will send you 3 pages thereof; the first page, an enclosed "Consignation" (part of a list of the possessions and property (land) given by Barbara Müller's father as a dowry to her), undersigned by "Filip Müller" and the last page with all signatures; Johannes Bührer, Maria Barbara Müller and both the fathers, Johannes Bührer and Phillip Müller.

Moreover, I could find a list referring to Johannes Bührer containing the names of his debtors, as he quit the country (he sold off his possessions and land, to have the money for the emigration). I have written out and sent you too.

And also in the nearest future, tomorrow or in one of the next days, I will send you two booklets with pictures of Wiernsheim (this a printed "Heimatgruss" at the years before the war) and of Birkenfeld. I made myself with postcards, so that you may see some illustrations.

Moreover, I could find the inventory of inheritance of Johannes Bührer's father, old Johannes Bührer (1728-1797) dated September 15, 1797, of which I made at Wiernsheim a complete copy; furthermore some other biographical details, etc.

Then I continued the work at Birkenfeld and I was very successful. As I was writing on September 6, it was possible to trace back the ancestral line Müller for five generations and also the maternal lines Dittus, Wesinger, Schrott, etc. more than three and four generations. (Note: Müller family later traced for ten generations; Dittus, nine generations; Wesinger-nine generations; Schrott, ten generations; and Bodamer, fourteen generations.)

Also I was able to discover wordly sources (just as at Wiernsheim) and among them to find out "Inventur- und Theilungs-Akten" and in these old voluminous volumes right in the midst I found the inventory of inheritance of Barbara Müller's father, Johann Phillip Müller (1725-1799), dated April 12, 1799 - and the inventory after death of his first wife Maria Elisabeth Dittus, died 1768, and other documents.

SEPTEMBER 11, 1950

Today I am able to send you the genealogical part of my research work Müller from Birkenfeld, the ancestors of Maria Barbara Müller: her ancestral line Müller with all influxes, the maternal lines Wesinger, Schrott (1), Wolfinger, Dittus, Kugelin, Wolfinger (2), Schrott (2), Rapp, Müller (2) and Bechtold.

The Bodamer family came from Calmback (Blackforest); the Rapp's from Durlach, (Baden) located in the French Zone of Germany; the family Muller (2) is, I suppose, from Jspringen (Baden near Pforzheim.) All other ancestral lines at Birkenfeld I could trace back as far as the church books go. Born and baptized to 1638, married to 1638, deaths to 1640. (NOTE: Bodamer family later traced to about 1460.)

All these families were old and permanent residents of Birkenfeld and I therefore, could find many ancestors of Maria Barbara Müller, even more than of her husband, Johannes Bührer. I could trace back the line Müller for five (later traced for ten generations) generations. The inclosed list (page 96 till 117) continues the genealogical list, which I inclosed in my letter May 15th. I inclose also a short survey sheet containing the names Müller, Wesinger, Dittus and Schrott.

Birkenfeld was until the 19th century a very poor community and all inhabitants had been modest and frugal people. The houses were small, only a room and a kitchen, (and the stable and stall all under one roof), and therefore their many children slept under the roof or in the attic. The soil was very poor and didn't give bread enough to feed them all in spite of hard and laborious work. I will tell you more later, if you want. But all these ancestors belonged to the esteemed families in the village.

I found in a little shed just beside the townhouse high in the attic (as at Wiernsheim among lumber and dust!) old thick volumes, some of which contained the "Inventarund Theilungs-Akten", that means: documents of the inventory of the newly wed couple and - if the husband or the wife had died - the "Theilungsakten", the inheritance. I copied some of them and thereby I could find, that Barbara's father, Philipp Müller, had a house and much land, but all scattered and small fields. I could find the inventory of his inheritance, in which his widow is listed (his second wife, Barbara's step-mother) and all his children living in 1797, Sept. 15th. There is also named a daughter living in Hungarya, Mrs. Reuster nee Müller, an older sister of Barbara. She had children and the family name has been carried on till today.

Three more descendants of the Müller family with the name Müller are still living, two are in the 50's and the son of one 23. One of them I even learned to know personally.

As I told you already, I could trace back the line Muller for five generations. (NOTE: this was five generations beyond Barbara Müller, 5th generation), till to Georg Müller, who died at Birkenfeld 1658, called "the old Georg" (ANe. 928, page 99). They all had been farmers and peasants, and many had had honorary jobs.

JOHANN JACOB MÜLLER (Gen. VIII, ANr. 232, page 97) was a "Ratsverwandter" then "Richter" and finally "Gerichtsverwandter". That means: a councilor, a judge and an honorary judge in his community.

MÜLLER FAMILY

JAKOB MÜLLER (Gen. IX. ANr. 464, page 98) was also ''Gerichtsverwandter'', and then ''Anwalt''. That is not quite what it is today, a lawyer or an advocate! It was in former times an honorary job; maybe an arbitrator, a guardian of widows and orphans, or of the poor.

Also other ancestors have had honorary jobs.

GEORG SCHROTT (Gen. IX. ANr. 466, page 100) was ''Gerichtsverwandter'', lawyer or advocate.

GEORG WESINGER (Gen. VIII, ANr. 234 page 102) was ''Anwalt'' and since 1718 ''Schultheiss'', ( - Burgermaster, mayor.), as his father.

JOHANNES WESINGER, (ANr. 468, page 103 which is listed by his death, Died 1672, July 10, ''viljahriger Burgermeister'' i.e. he has been Bergermaster a great many years. And also

ABRAHAM WOLFINGER (Gen. IX, ANr. 470 and together Gen. X, ANr. 950, page 105 and page 111) was a ''Gerichtsverwandter'', a councilor, senator; and

JOHANNES KUGELIN (Gen. IX, ANr. 474, page 109) was ''Schultheiss'', i.e. Burgermaster since 1670 till his death 1674 and ''Armenkasten'' - or ''Almosen- Pfleger'', that means a guardian of the poor. And also JOHANN FREDRICH SCHROTT, (Gen. VIII, ANr. 238, page 113) was Burgermaster. (Mayor).

JOHANNES MÜLLER (Gen. IX, ANr. 478, page 115) was a miller at Birkenfeld, (between Nov. 1677 and Nov. 1678 when he died)

likewide called a miller, now was a miller since 1684; therefore he has been the successor in possession of the mill, and then succeeded him as his son

JOHANN MICHAEL DITTUS (Gen. VIII, ANr. 236, page 107). He was first a miller. But (I learned to know from somewhere) he had a damage caused by fire and later he was a ''Rossle-Wirt'', i.e. innkeeper. We was the owner of a little tavern. ''Rossle'' is the derivation from ''Ross'', which means horse. The tavern ''Zum Rossle'' exists till today. You will find it on the postcard in the booklet with pictures of Birkenfeld. It is the small building on the left of the town-house.

The ''old mill'' also still exists! You will find it in the booklet too. It is on the postcard ''Gruss aus Birkenfeld'' (on the first and on the last page) the top picture on the right. I was very sorry that I lost my camera during the war, otherwise I could have taken pictures of all those houses and places of interest to you at Birkenfeld and also in Wiernsheim, where I found the house of Johannes Bührer, who died 1797 May 27. As I discovered the inventory of inheritance, dated 1797 July 20, I could read, that he has had and had left ''Eine neu erbaute Behausung, Scheuren und Hofraithen, unter einem Dach, untem im Dorf, hinter dem Rathaus - - '', that (I will try to translate): ''A new house, barn (or shed) and Hofraithen' (that's not to translate, that means Tenne, Diele, - floor, threshing floor), behind the town-house - - - '' Nevertheless Wiernsheim was badly damaged at the end of the war and there are only five houses left intact. This house still exists! (In this house Johannes Buhrer and Barbara Müller, his young wife, were living till her emigration!) I was very delighted as I have had such a find--and I am sure you will be surprised and delighted too, and still more than I was, to learn to know so many details. It's not possible always to get so much biographical material. The old townhall, the old houses at the marketplace and the old mill at Birkenfeld already existed at the time Barbara Müller was still a kid and her parents and relations were living at Birkenfeld.

From ANr 239, Generation VIII )page 107) on

MARIA MAGDALENA MÜLLER there is a second line Müller. There is no doubt that both lines were related. Her father was

JOHANNES MÜLLER miller at Birkenfeld and a son of the miller

JAKOB MÜLLER, miller "at Epringen". I suppose Jspringen near Pforzheim as I have said already.

KATHARINA BECHTOLD (GEN. IX, ANr 479, page 116) is a sister of the first wife of the ancestor Matthias Schrott (page 113, ANr 476). He married as a widower.

ANNA ELISABETH RAPP from Durlach, your ancestress, died as a widow in 1685, April 12.

ANNA MARGARETHA WOLFINGER and Maria Wolfinger (pages 111 and 112, ANr 235 and 475) are sisters! Therefore

ABRAHAM WOLFINGER (ANr 470/ANr 950) (page 105 and 112) and his wife

BARBARA WENTZ (died as a widow 1696, on February 25) are twice in your pedigree and logically all of her forefathers too. In such small villages it often occured that there was a marriage between related families and husband and wife had the same ancestors in all earlier gene - relations. (I am sorry to say that I do not know how this fact is named in America?

here we say: Ahnenverlust, or Ahnengleichheit, or Ahnengemeinschaft, perhaps: ancestorloss? ancestor-equality? or ancestor co-ordinate? Likewise

MAGDALENA BODAMER (Gen. IX, ANr. 465, page 98) and Katharina Bodamer (Gen. IX, ANr. 469, page 104) are sisters! and so JOHANN ULRICH BODAMER from Calmbach (in the Blackforest), is twice in your genealogical tree. His wife is unknown.

You will find in your pedigree many Christian names and surnames spelled in a different way. There are several ways of spelling every surname and they were not always spelled as it is now, i.e., Littus, (how it is spelled at present). Dithiss, Dittes. Dittis, Dettis, Duttis, Tittis, and so on. Bechtold. Bachtold, Bechthold. Weisinger: Wessinger. Schrott: Schroth.

A few hundred years ago but few people could read and the members of the family, most of them, did not know how to spell their own name i.e., Johann Georg. Hans Jorg, Hanss Jerg, or Phillip - Filip. Muller. Miller; Buhrer, Bierer, Birrer, etc.

Thus the name was spelled the way the minister or the "Kirchenbuchfuhrer" (sacristan, church secretary, or schoolmaster, who was writing in the church books), thought it should be spelled. It might be spelled one way in the church records, another way in the inventory by marriage or the inventory after death, and still another way in worldly registers, register of landed property, etc., etc.

I could not find any hint whether and when Johannes Bührer was a soldier or other informations about his being in the army. He was a farmer, (a peasant), and he left his home and his country because he thought that he would get better food in America. In those years many people and also many farmers went to foreign countries, to America and to Hungarya, hoping to find better bread and food for their wives and children. They left their Vaterland, their homes, "the hearth where soft affections dwell" for this foreign country. But Johannes Bührer, as you say, was buried at sea and only the widow and her three sons arrived at the new home.
